Excerpt: . . . generalized feeding categories as follows: (1) principally piscivorous (including squids); (2) predators on plankton other than fish or squid; (3) principal consumers of benthic epifaunal crustaceans; (4) those which feed primarily on benthic infauna and non-crustacean epifauna. More intensive feeding studies were initiated in 1973 to help determine the feeding chronology, digestion rate, consumption, and gross growth efficiency of selected fish species. Species were chosen according to their general feeding category, relative abundance within a geographic area, and commercial value. The feeding category of a particular species is made up of the principal prey of various trophic levels that link up and tend to focus energy toward the a1. selected fish species (Tyler et 1981). The overall plan was to monitor the food of at least one species representative of each general feeding category within each of...
