Not illustrated. 1912 Excerpt: .this desire the number of schools to be taught with English as a medium of instruction has increased gradually year by year. This growth is evident from the following statement: Before the opening of the school year 1909-10 no rural schools were taught wholly in English. During that year 124 rural teachers, at their own request, were given permission by their supervising principals to conduct all their classes in English. The results were so satisfactory that during the past year the number of rural schools conducted wholly in English was increased to 154. In 222 rural schools some subjects other than English were taught in English, and in but 2 per cent of the rural schools was no English whatever taught. The following table shows the progress of English in the rural schools during the past three years: During the coming school year over 550 Porto Rican teachers who hold the English graded license will impart instruction in the various branches of the graded-school curriculum entirely in English, as compared with 449 the preceding year. The use of English as a medium of instruction has developed to such an extent in the graded schools that at the present time there is not a single one in the island in which no English is taught, and only three in which instruction in the different branches is given in Spanish, with English as a special subject. As the few kindergartens established in the island are conducted in English,...
