Extrait: . . . is a fire, nor let them, at any time, play with fire. Never take a lighted candle, without a lantern, into a stable; or venture into a hayloft, even with a lantern. Leaving chimneys too long unswept; making too great a blaze in a fire-place; letting a candle or lamp burn, or a poker remain in the fire, when there is no person in the room; and carrying about the house a candle with a long snuff; should be carefully avoided: as should also every thing else that is at all likely to occasion any mischief by fire. In going about the house at night, especially to bed, when any light is necessary, it is proper to use a small lantern; or a short candle, or a lamp, in a large flat candlestick, with snuffers, and an extinguisher. By the laws...
